Voodoo
Daddy

Program to be announced from the stage.

Together for over 32 years, Big Bad Voodoo Daddy — famously named after an autograph by blues legend Albert Collins — has appeared in concert venues across the world, sold millions of records, and had their music appear in hundreds of movies and television shows. With sold out concerts from the Hollywood Bowl to Lincoln Center, appearances with many of the country's finest symphony orchestras, and television appearances ranging from Dancing with the Stars to Superbowl XXXIII, Big Bad Voodoo Daddy continues its decades long mission to celebrate and revitalize jazz and swing music — America's original musical art form — and bring joy to audiences around the world.

SCOTTY MORRIS

VOCALS & GUITAR

Big Bad Voodoo Daddy singer/songwriter Scotty Morris has spent the last two and a half decades committed to writing and performing original and classic American jazz and swing music. The band, formed by Morris in Ventura, California in 1989, was named "Big Bad Voodoo Daddy" after Scotty met Texas blues guitar legend Albert Collins at one of the latter's concerts. "He signed my poster 'To Scotty, the big bad voodoo daddy.' I thought it was the greatest name I had ever heard on one of the greatest musical nights of my life. So when it came time to name this band, I didn't really have a choice. I felt like it was handed down to me."

DRUMS & PERCUSSION

Co-founder Kurt Sodergren's 20 plus year career as the drummer for Big Bad Voodoo Daddy was a natural fit — his grandfather played in swing and jazz bands most of his life including a stint with the US Army Big Band during WWII. Shortly after meeting Scotty Morris in the late 80's, they formed Big Bad Voodoo Daddy as a trio, soon expanding the lineup and adding jazz elements to their already gritty blues format. More than two decades later Kurt's favorite moments remain playing new venues and the now de rigeur post show meet and greet. "It's a great way to stay connected to our fans and form a sort of patchwork family across the country."

DIRK SHUMAKER

BASS & VOCALS

Dirk Shumaker joined Big Bad Voodoo Daddy in 1993 and has been a driving force as the band's string bass player ever since. Drawing on diverse musical influences, Dirk's bass playing and harmony vocals add a unique sound to the band that appeals to listeners of all ages. Feeling right at home as a performer, Dirk has long been a fan favorite.

ANDY ROWLEY

BARITONE SAXOPHONE & VOCALS

Together with his bandmates of over twenty-two years, Andy Rowley is one of the founding members of the Big Bad Voodoo Daddy horn section. Switching between his baritone saxophone and singing backup vocals, Andy has helped bring the band's unique sound to audiences around the globe.

GLEN "THE KID" MARHEVKA

TRUMPET

Glen Marhevka has been the featured trumpet soloist for Big Bad Voodoo Daddy for over 20 years and helped bring together several of the band's members as the group was forming. Glen has spearheaded the band's educational outreach, promoting music education and excellence in schools across the country.

TENOR, ALTO AND SOPRANO SAXOPHONES & CLARINET

Featured soloist Karl Hunter has played an array of saxophones and clarinets for Big Bad Voodoo Daddy. A driven musician and restless explorer of rhythm and sound, Karl's onstage improvisations add intensity and raw power to the band's sound.

PIANO & ARRANGER

Joshua Levy has been with Big Bad Voodoo Daddy for over twenty years. Through his his work as pianist, arranger, and collaborator with band songwriter Scotty Morris, Josh has sought to create original jazz and swing music that connects with a wide and varied audience as well as to find a voice to reinterpret and promote classic music of the jazz era.

TROMBONE

Alex (Crazy legs) Henderson has been Big Bad Voodoo Daddy's trombonist since 2001. His energy on stage and comedic flare wows audiences everywhere.

MITCH COOPER

LEAD TRUMPET

Mitch Cooper has toured as Big Bad Voodoo Daddy's lead trumpet player since 2017. Mitch punctuates the horn section with a supremely focused lead trumpet sound and range. In addition, he has the innate ability to connect with any audience.
